

Popular Social Networking Sites

www.facebook.com

Facebook is a free social networking site that allows everyone -from high school classmates to business colleagues- to connect online. Through facebook, you can communicate with old friends or find new ones that share your interests. Search for friends by browsing name, location, company, workplace, or network. You can also join groups that reflect your beliefs or hobbies. Once you are connected to others, you can share videos, pictures, quizzes, comments, advertisements, events, and ideas. Express yourself with a detailed profile, a blog, or a survey. Facebook is a photo album, an address book, a classified paper, a mailbox, a memo board, and an overall companion to your social and professional needs. (Join the United Steelworkers facebook group.)

www.youtube.com

YouTube is a free online network, where members can watch, share, and search through thousands of videos. Everything from homemade comedy acts to the latest news clips can be found on YouTube. Once a member, you can upload videos, choose favorites, subscribe to videos that are related to a specific topic, or add friends for easier sharing. YouTube is like an online television channel that allows the viewers to pick the shows. (Check our our channel at www.youtube.com/steelworkers.)

www.flickr.com

Flickr is an image and video hosting website, web services suite, and online community platform. It was one of the earliest Web 2.0 applications. (Send photos to flickr@usw.org)

Get more social networking tips at www.usw.org/members